Convicts Work Like Heroes, Assisting Guards at Risk of Their Lives.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., March 3 .- A fire in the jute warehouse of the state penitentiary here today caused a loss of about $50,000. The flames were fought heroically by a force of over 100 fought heroically by a force of over 100 convicts, many prison guards and firemen from San Rafael and San Francisco. Several of the prisoners, while attempting to extinguish the fire, were overcome by smoke and narrowly escaped with their lives. One of them, L. J. Frouman, employed as bookkeeper at the warehouse, had a leg broken and another fell unconscious on the roof, but was quickly rescued. Guard White, while working from the guardhouse located over the warehouse, fell into the fire, but was rescued by the convicts.

One thousand rounds of smmunition stored in the guardhouse fell into the flames and were exploded. Despite the danger of being hit by the flying bullets, the prisoners remained at their posts of duty and all escaped injury from this source. A Gatling gun was dragged from the guardhouse by soveral of the convicts, who attached a rope to it, at the risk of their lives. The warehouse is situated outside the prison walls, and none of the other buildings was endangered.

REMARKABLE TRIBUTE TO MR. FAIRBANKS

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Behind closed doors the senate today paid Vice President Fairbanks one of the most remarkable tributes ever given to a presiding officer. He was presented with a magnificent silver service cost-ing $1185 as the gift of the entire body of senators and with a loving cup as the present of the Democratic mem-

The presentation was made by Sen-ator McCumber, who spoke of the vice president's ability and his devotion to work.

Senator Daniel spoke for the minority, dilating upon Mr. Fairbanks uniform fairness. He suggested that if at any time Mr. Fairbanks should tire of the monotonous service in the Republican party the Democrats would be glad to welcome him. He suggested that it would not be well for Mr. Fairbanks to take more than one draught from the flagon before breakfast if he should happen to get it filled with other than buttermilk.

Mr. Fairbanks exhibited deep feeling in his reply. Then practically the whole

WHAT TAFT SAYS OF PREDECESSOR

to him with bonds of steel.
"The general theory that Mr. Roosevelt is of an exceedingly impulsive nature is, perhaps, justified to the extent of saying that he had a marvelous quickness for apprehending a question and reaching the nub of it and also an overwhelming desire to desirable out of the interest presented.

and also an overwhelming desire to decide to get rid of the issue presented as promptly as possible.

"I never knew a man who worked as far in advance of what was to be done and who kept his engagements with reference to what he had agreed to do as providently as Mr. Roosevelt.
Perhaps I value this virtue more highly because I lack it myself. The result of quick decision and action might have inspired the success of Mr. Roose velt's career, if it had not been that he has been freer than most men from that pride of opinion which prevents many men from admitting their errors, reversing their judgment and changing their course. I have had to do with a number of presidents and with a good many chiefs, and I am well within the number of presidents and with a good many chiefs, and I am well within the truth when I say that I never met a man who, under proper presentation, would reverse himself as willingly and with as little trace of obstinacy or unreasonableness as Mr. Roosevelt.

Long Close Friends.

Long Close Friends.

"The relation between Mr. Roosevelt and myself have been one of close and sweet intimacy. It has never been ruffled in the slightest degree, and I do not think that we have ever misunderstood each other. Mr. Roosevelt's tastes and mine have not been the same. In the matter of athletics he takes to those games more violent than I like. He has the strongest literary sense and a power of application in reading current literature that to me is marvelous. He loves the woods; he loves hunting; he loves like akin to that of the pioneer; I don't.

"Mr. Roosevelt never had the education and practice of a lawyer. His intense desire to reach practical results for good has made him at times impationt of the restraint of legal methods, while I have been trained as a lawyer and as a judge, and am as methods, while I have been trained as a lawyer and as a judge, and am as strongly imbued with the necessity for legal methods as cloven years on the bench are likely to make one; and yet in spite of this difference of method and difference of temperament, it is quite remarkable to me, and we have transmitted and the each quite remarkable to me, and we have frequently commented on it to each other, that we have been in agreement in our views as to the results that ought to be obtained in the matter of government and political progress, even to details, much more than other men who have come into association with both of ver both of us.

Courage Undoubted.

"Mr. Roosevelt's courage in the expression of his convictions I need not dwell upon. His real, and what one might almost describe as affectionate interest in the welfare of the poor man; of the man who has great obstacles to meet, and who has the odds against him in life's struggle and the sincerity of his desire to help that class of men, no one who ever had to do with him could doubt, and his insistence has always been that the difficulty between the se-called classes in the country and weys been that the difficulty between the so-called classes in the country and the failure of educated lawyers and po-litical economists and others to bring about proper relations between the well to do and those dependent upon wages for their living, arises from an absence of a proper point of view on the part of those who are leading com-fortable lives.

Has Confidence of Masses.

"The confidence that the common plain peple, including wage earners, have had in Theodore Rooseveit as their representative and defender has been most perfectly placed, for there dence having been submitted, counsel will sum up temerrow in the case for the government against the American Sugar Refining company, for alleged evasion of customs duties through shortage in weight.

The most important of the witnesses was M. C. Farmer, commissioner of weights for Massachusetts, who gave expert testimony cohcerning the merits and demerits of certain types of scales. He considered, he said, that the type used when the alleged francis were committed were inaccurate.

GREEK MINER BRINGS HEAVY DAMAGE SUIT

Boston Consolidated Mining Company Made Defendant in $20.000 Action.

Tom Cetina, a Greek miner, demands $20,000 damages of the Boston Consolidated Mining company in a suit filed in the third district court Wednesday, for injuries received in a cave-in in the company's mine at Bingham Canyon, July 12, 1908. It is alleged that the fulling rock and earth broke Ce-tina's right leg between the ankle and knee and the left leg above the ankle. Cetina sets out that he was confined in a hospital for seven months, under-going two operations. It was necessary to wire the bones of each leg together and remove portions of the bones of the left leg, he says. The fracture of the bones of the left leg failed to unite, Cating alleges, forming a falsa point. Cetina alleges, forming a false joint, and shortening the limb. He says he has to walk on crutches all the time and is disabled for life.
